

One Multi-Talented Architectural Firm

Studio One Architecture, Inc is a design firm focusing on architecture and interiors. We profile the firm and its founder, Stephen Flanagan as we look to gain an insight into the company's outstanding success, being named one of LUX 2017 Leading Designers.

Established in 2004, Studio One has developed a strategy which helps the company seek out opportunities, through a careful reading of the landscape and collaborative dialogue with its clients. Striving to obtain elegant solutions by weaving together what makes each site and client unique, Studio One focuses not just on how a solution should look and function, but how it should make you feel.

In light of this, the firm has concentrated on Hospitality, Wellness, and Single Family Residential projects, emphasizing place making and design for clients who realize the effect architecture has on experience. Paying close attention to detail and sustainability, the company aims to produce projects intrinsically connected with the client's vision and aspirations. Matching the clients' requirements, and exceeding their expectations is a vital part of the firm's success, and a client can approach Studio One knowing the company is capable of producing a project akin to their unique circumstances.

Although Studio One's projects have been exclusively built within the United States, their work has been featured in magazines from Europe, Scandinavia, The Middle East, and Canada as well as in several books including making the cover of Eco Living, an architectural review of homes from around the world. Studio One has also received numerous awards, written for trade journals, been featured on tours, in local publications, and requested for speaking engagements. All this adds to the firm's experience and enhances their sterling reputation.

Placing an emphasis on sustainable design, the company is looking to improve the natural environment, as well as the client's built environment, by focusing on how to best integrate to any project's immediate context. Leveraging the building systems to be both efficient and symbiotic creates opportunities that are otherwise hidden. The firm attracts clients who seek these relationships and want to improve not only their lives but the lives of future generations through careful preservation and thoughtful growth.

With such an experienced principal, Studio One is well set to catapult itself to the top of the architecture industry. By bridging gaps, the firm focuses on achievable solutions that are functional, affordable, pleasing, and beyond client expectations.

Ultimately, resolving design challenges, whether for a product, a home, or a commercial building, requires a special type of understanding that leverages creativity and technological expertise in a collaborative effort. Studio One and its employees work together as a team, working hard to provide their clients with the best service.
